Headline:
Sunny spells with the odd shower. Feeling warm.

Today:
A clear and sunny start for many. Turning hazy in places with some passing cloud quickly bubbling up during the late morning, bring a lasting risk of a sudden shower. Feeling warm, especially in the south. Maximum temperature 23 deg C (73 deg F).

Tonight:
Risks of showers lasting till evening, mostly along central Wales. Otherwise, staying largely fine and clear throughout, feeling chilly as temperatures drop overnight. Low cloud moves in from Cardigan Bay. Minimum temperature 11 deg C (52 deg F).

Thursday:
A bright day with sunny spells, and low, lingering cloud around coastlines. A small chance of a shower throughout. Feeling warm in the sunshine. Maximum temperature 21 deg C (70 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Largely sunny on Friday with the odd shower, feeling cooler under any cloud. Thicker cloud and organised rain arriving overnight. Breezy with heavy, possibly thundery, and widespread showers all weekend.
